+/- Project Space

Lindsay Packer: spacetime

September 18 - November 9, 2015

Public Receptions:

Fri. September 18, 6-9PM

Sat. October 17, 3-6PM

SOHO20 is pleased to announce the initiation of the +/- Project Space, which will be part of their new gallery in the 56 Bogart building in Bushwick, Brooklyn. For the launch of this space, SOHO20 will present the work of Brooklyn based artist, Lindsay Packer. As the premier project in the +/- Project Space, Packer's spacetime will evolve in the gallery over the course of two months, shifting periodically throughout the duration of the installation, with two public receptions on September 18 and October 17.

Using the parameters of her own process to guide the outcome, Packer's low-tech installations turn simple objects, light refractions, and shadows into opulent visual displays. Typically sourcing found objects from the exhibition sites, she breathes life into the most overlooked of materials - never hiding, rather transforming them into arresting optical studies. Once the exhibition is over, the materials return to their original uses, leaving barely a trace of the metamorphosis.

SOHO20's +/- Project Space features one work, project or performance by an artist or group at a time. Focusing on works that are either ephemeral, performative or site-specific, artists are chosen to participate in the project space based on their artistic process rather than product. Highlighting the works and practices of emerging artists, the +/- Project Space exhibitions will run concurrently with the regular exhibition season, opening once per month.
